EXPLANATIONS.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR ADMISSION.

Extracts from the 'Rules for the government of the Seminary.'

"Every person producing to the Faculty satisfactory evidence of his having been admitted a candidate for holy orders, with full qualifications, according to the Canons of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, shall be received as a student in the Seminary. All others may be admitted who shall produce satisfactory evidence of religious and moral character, and of classical and scientific attainments; and, in general, of such dispositions and habits as may render them apt and meet to exercise the ministry."

"Every applicant for admission shall enter the Seminary in the Junior class at the commencement of the first session; unless, upon examination by the Faculty, he is found qualified to take his station in either of the other classes, or in the said Junior class at any period after the commencement of its first session; in either of which cases, he may be admitted accordingly, and be entitled to the same rank and privileges as the original members of the class into which he enters."

COURSE OF STUDY.

The full course of study occupies three years; each year comprising one session, commencing on the last Wednesday in September, and terminating on the second Wednesday in July. There is a suspension of the exercises of the Seminary from Christmas to New Year, on Ash Wednesday, during the week immediately preceding Easter, and on all the days of thanksgiving or fasting appointed by the ecclesiastical or civil authority.

There are three classes in the Seminary; the term of study in each of which is one year. The students who enter the first year compose the Junior class; those advanced into the second year the Middle class; and those into the third year the Senior class.

REGULATIONS.

Every student is required, on his admission into the Seminary, to subscribe his name to the following declaration:

"We, the subscribers, students of the Theological Seminary of Virginia, do solemnly promise, with reliance on divine grace, that we will, during our connexion with the Seminary, faithfully obey the laws thereof, and diligently prosecute all the studies, and perform all the duties which, according to the rules of the Institution, may be required of us; and, furthermore, that we will uniformly cultivate religious and moral dispositions and habits, and, by every means within our proper sphere, endeavor to promote the reputation and interests of the Seminary."

Every student in the Seminary must be a member of one of the classes, and engage in all the studies which appertain to his class.

No student shall be absent from any recitation without first giving notice thereof to the Professor.

The roll is called at every recitation, and a report of all the absences annually made by each Professor to the Board of Trustees.

EXAMINATIONS.

The classes are publicly examined by the faculty at the close of each session.

APPENDIX.

Under the control of the same Board of Trustees, in the immediate vicinity of the Theological Seminary, and in its sphere devoted to the same great ends, is

THE EPISCOPAL HIGH SCHOOL OF VIRGINIA.

An Institution designed for general learning, under the benign influences of religion.

Three subordinate ends coalesce with this, viz:

1. To furnish an Institution for Students who may wish to prepare themselves on the spot for entering the Theological Seminary.

2. To provide at reduced cost, proper education for the sons of clergymen.

3. To afford a good education to all its pupils, at a cost much below the average expense of the same.

The organization and government of the Institution are more domestic and conservative than those of Colleges—while its course of studies is in the main the same.

Its location is retired, beautiful and healthy, and presents an immense benefit in the religious influence of the Theological Seminary on this subordinate Institution.

The number of students is limited to 75. The highest total expense is $175 per annum. $150 when two come from the same family. Sons of clergymen and students preparing for the Theological Seminary, at diminished prices according to circumstances.

The general age of admission is over 14—a few pupils, however, are received between 10 and 14.

The sessions of this Institution correspond, nearly, with those of the Theological Seminary, and its examinations occur at the same time, for the satisfaction of the Trustees and other visitors.

This is the fifth year of its successful operation. It has been attended by about 170 students, 50 of whom have become pious at the Institution, and others since leaving it. It has furnished to the Theological Seminary, ten students, and has six others in a course of preparation for the same.

Its present number of pupils is about 45. But it needs more extensive patronage. The Bishops of the Diocese, the Trustees and the Faculty of the Theological Seminary, from personal knowledge, concur in recommending to christian parents this Diocesan School.

OFFICERS OF THE INSTITUTION.

Rev. Wm. N. Pendleton, Principal.
Professor of Mathematics, Natural Philosophy and Chemistry.

*Rev. James May, D.D.
Professor of Moral and Intellectual Philosophy.

Milo Mahan, Robert Nelson, Wm. Passmore,
